

Daddy Where Are You?

Daddy where are you? Daddy come home
Mummy says you have gone and apparently everyone knows
I hear the screaming, the yelling and the cries of the women and children.
Mummy says you have gone.
Daddy where are you? Daddy come home.
The soldiers in the war and us at such a bore
Mothers shaking and bones breaking.
Daddy where are you? Daddy come home.
Remember me and what we used to be, you were better than all the rest
I love you Daddy, I love you.
As I look out of the window, I see people die and then I kneel down and cry,
Daddy where are you? Daddy come home.
Bruises fade but the pain remains the same
Every morning that I wake I try to take away that pain,
I cry myself to sleep but I still hear the bleating on the street,
Daddy where are you? Daddy come home.
I miss you Daddy, as Mummy kisses me she starts to cry
What has happened Daddy?
I can see and hear the guns and bombs.
I hear it Daddy, I hear the last words of soldiers
'I love you son, don't let me go'.
Daddy have you said those words, Daddy have you cried yourself to sleep?
A man has sent you to the angels hasn't he?
I love you daddy and I hope you know,
Daddy where are you? Daddy I know.
